Collecting Early Machine Made Marbles From The M.F. Christensen & Son Company And Christensen Agate Company

Synopsis

With this book, readers will discover machine made marbles from the early 1900s to the 1930s that revolutionized the glass marble industry. Over 700 beautiful color photos display marbles produced by both Ohio-based companies, M. F. Christensen & Son Company and Christensen Agate Company. Among the examples displayed are bricks, cobras, guineas, opaques, slags, single pontil slags, swirls, and hand-gathered swirls. Additionally, early slag marbles known as "transitionals" are featured. The text includes histories of these two important glass marble companies, descriptions of their various marble types, and their methods of manufacture. Values for the marbles displayed are found in the captions. This book will be treasured by all those who collect and enjoy marbles.

Customer Reviews

Robert Block has been collecting, appraising, dealing with, and writing about marbles for over a decade.

Robert Block's books are among the best references for marble collectors. The illustrations are profuse, and the color reproduction is excellent quality.

The Block family are true marble gurus. They make learning all about the addicting glass balls easy.

excellent book, really helpful to me as a COLLECTOR.

Love this book. Topic well covered.

My uncle really loved it, as he is a marble enthusiast!

Both of the books I purchased from [Marble Mania and collecting early machine marbles] are great and helpful addition to my marble collecting. Thank You very much sphere
